One Of the Latest Designs

This dress, shown by one of the leading shops, was universally admired. The foundation slip is of dark blue satin, with a plain, medium full skirt. Over this was worn a tunic of bright green chiffon, embroidered heavily with dull gold and blue and trimmed with dull gold braid and ornaments.

The girdle is of chiffon velvet, exactly matching the green tunic.

Showers

Mrs. W. H. Forbes gave a miscellaneous shower Tuesday afternoon at her home in Altura, complimentary to Miss Ceral Christie, who will be a September bride. The house was decorated with fresh cut flowers from Mrs. Forbes's garden. The playing of "500" entertained the guests for the early part of the afternoon, with Mrs. C. H. Holloway winning the prize for the highest score. The prize was a glass bonbon dish in a silver Tiffany setting. Mrs. Paul Atkinson won a consolation prize, a twin picture in brown tones framed in brown. A guessing contest caused much merriment.

As Miss Christie is to become Mrs. Brown, the color scheme of the refreshments and souvenirs carried out the colors of her wedding, pink and white and brown. The brick ice cream being pink, white and brown, and the cakes also. Little verses, written on the hostess' calling cards, and tied with ribbons in the three colors were presented to each guest. Following the refreshments, the shower gifts were brought in by little Harold Forbes, in two small traveling grips. Mrs. Forbes was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. W. H. Forbes, Jr., Harold Forbes and Willie Forbes. The guests included: Mesdames C. H. Holloway, Herman Bell, George W. Dennis, J. E. Walker, J. O. Forbes, Paul Atkinson, Charles A. Reinhardt, J. M. Burroughs, G. Waugh, S. Sexton, A. Sanson, A. B. Lusk, Annie O'Rear, Miss Shirley Eaton and Irene LaFont.

A Treat For El Paso Women.
M. Posener, who has just returned from New York, talks interestingly of the metropolis. Of course, as millinery is always uppermost in Mr. Posener's thoughts, it was millinery he told a Herald reporter about yesterday.

"In addition to securing the largest and most beautiful stock of millinery ever brought on, I want to tell you about a special millinery feature that will prove a real treat to El Paso women," said Mr. Posener yesterday.

"Mr. Cobbleins and myself spent considerable time in obtaining exclusive Parisian pattern hats to match suits and gowns that will be shown by us this fall.

"Although this took considerable time, we felt that El Paso people would appreciate the effort. Later on we will show this perfectly matched millinery and ready-to-wear.

"Already the 'White House Millinery' section shows a wealth of early fall millinery, principally tailored hats from Phipps, Oage, Bergessner, Castle, and others. Also felt and crushes in a wide variety are shown.

"Among the crushes is a 'Tweddie Doe' model that makes about the cutest school hat a girl ever wore."

Church Affairs

"Our missionary training schools" was the subject of the missionary meeting of the Aid and Missionary society of El Paso Tuesday afternoon in the church building. Song, scripture reading and prayer opened the meeting. Mrs. Z. W. Sarrels and Mrs. W. B. Day were the leaders. Among the papers read were "Facts about our missionary training schools," Mrs. Z. W. Sarrels; "Type of missionaries needed," Mrs. J. Hine-Myers; "Mental and other qualifications," Mrs. T. F. Kimbell; "Fort Worth Training School," Miss Jane Long; "Questions on the work," Mrs. Frank Scott; "Western women in eastern lands," by Mrs. J. R. McLeod. An instrumental solo by Mrs. W. H. Vance and prayer by the pastor, Rev. R. T. Hanks, closed the meeting. A social time followed, with ice cream and cake served by the social committee of the society. Rev. R. T. Hanks laid plans before the members on the raising of funds toward the new church building.

Mrs. J. F. Williams entertained the Aid and Missionary society of the First Baptist church Tuesday afternoon at her home, 1066 Magoffin avenue. The meeting opened with devotional exercises. "Our Missionary Training Schools," was the topic of the papers of the afternoon, of which there were several. Mrs. William Wood read one on the Training school at Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. Lizzie Boykin, on the Training school at Fort Worth; Mrs. W. J. Buile talked on the Cottage home at Denton, Tex., for the girls attending the Training school there; Miss Minnie Tupper talked on the work among the Mexicans in the Mexican quarter of El Paso, and Miss Lizzie Hall on "How Our Missionary Society Can Aid These Schools." Vocal solos by Mrs. William Graves and Mrs. E. V. Pearson were given. The program was followed by a social time, with refreshments served by the hostess.

Among those present were the following: Mesdames A. M. Walthall, J. F. Williams, R. H. Bishop, R. V. Pearson, William Graves, W. J. Buile, Lizzie Boykin, William Wood, J. H. Nations, W. D. Mayfield, Van C. Wilson, J. L. Dunn, E. R. Tost, A. R. Schowrup, J. F. Ford, R. C. Du Sang, H. F. Wright, S. M. Seaman, Dan Payne, C. C. Black, S. A. Lowther, Misses Alice Bishop, Luella Williams, Geneva Wilbanks, Dora Ballinger, Lizzie Hall and Minnie Tupper.

Parties

In honor of the 13th birthday anniversary of their daughter, Miss Ruby Mae Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Fuller entertained a number of her young friends in her honor Tuesday night at their apartment in the Brazos flats. Mr. and Mrs. Fuller were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. A. Richard in entertaining the guests, who were: Misses Blanche White, Dorothy Crane, Sylvia Rivers, Gladys Gaffield, Blanche Roe, Gladys Brock, Harry Welch, Raymond White, Clarence Richard, Robert Measmer, James D. Elliott, Clarence Thompson and Ralph Pateman. The rooms were decorated attractively with garlands of pink and green paper and Chinese lanterns. Pink and white carnations and roses in graceful vases were placed about the rooms.

Games of various sorts entertained the guests and Miss Blanche White and Harry Welch added much to the entertainment of the guests with their piano solos. The refreshments were served in the dining room, the table decorations being especially pretty. A vase of tall pink gladioli was the centerpiece, and from the chandelier over the table was suspended a horse shoe full of pink flowers for a lucky year. The large birthday cake was of white with pink candles. Favors of hand painted pink satin boxes were at each girl's place, they contained a little white rabbit, with a pink bow about its neck. At the boys' places were burnt wood boxes tinted with pink, filled with sweetmeats. The place cards were cards painted with pink flowers. The pink and white color plan was carried out in the refreshments, the ice cream being pink, with white and pink cake and pink and green mints. The guest of honor was the recipient of many gifts.

A Valuable Addition—Bed Davenport. Probably no piece of furniture is a more valuable addition to the home than a bed davenport. We are now showing the largest line of davenports we have ever carried.

These handsome davenports are an addition to any living room and when occasion requires can be made into a thoroughly comfortable bed. They have revolving seat and are furnished with regular bed spring and regular mattress. They can be had in any finish desired and upholstered either in leather or pantosette. Come in and let us show them to you.

Weddings

Miss Winifred Mae Buffington, daughter of Mrs. Charles Lewis, and Arthur Rhinhardt Andersen were quietly married Tuesday night by Rev. John E. Abbott, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church at his home, 1132 North El Paso street. Only a few of the most intimate friends of the couple were present. The bride wore a white lingerie gown. The couple will make their home at 1315 North El Paso street, where they will be at home to their friends.

ROUTE OF THE AIR

The Aviator Photographed in Full Flight Together With His Views Of the Earth Beneath

Photographed by themselves while in 1000 feet above the chateau and flight: MM. Andre Schelcher and Pierre Debroutelle aboard a biplane nearly over of Breteuil, the country residence of the Prince of Wales's host in France.

By GARRETT P. SERVIS.
ONE only needs to glance at the photograph accompanying this article in order to understand the irresistible lure of the highway of the air. One feels the charm, and sees why no number of fatal accidents can dissolve its power over adventurous spirits.

It is the flight of the eagle. The little wheels that played their part in the first spring from the ground, and now hang motionless beneath, are the claws of the great bird, drawn up beneath its body and waiting until the mighty wings, weary at last of flight, call upon them once more to renew connection with the ground.

The swiftly revolving propeller in front is only a blur to the eye, but its steady pull fills the aviator with exultant confidence in the power of his wonderful machine.

The photograph—the first of the kind—was made by Andre Schelcher, the French aviator, who has devoted himself with great enthusiasm to the development of photographs from aeroplanes in flight. M. Schelcher, in this case, is the passenger, and the pilot is M. Pierre Debroutelle.

The peculiarity of the picture, that which gives it its strange charm, consists in the fact that it shows at one glance both the interior of the aeroplane and the view that is spread beneath the eyes of its occupants. The camera was placed at the end of one of the upper planes, at such a distance that both the machine and the landscape should be in focus at the same time, and it was operated by the pulling of a string. Thus the observer is
